

ABSTACT

5 When alarms and/or messages are present in the environment of an industrial controller, SMS messages and/or e-mails are used to send all the relevant information to a predefinable group of receivers. The selection of the information and of the group of receivers may be configured in a converter. This allows optimum service to be provided even by physically remote personnel.

290312

006750" 81549350